Foreword

This is the policy plan of Van Bommel Foundation (Chamber of Commerce: 99535750) for the period from 2026 through 2028.

This policy plan contains extensive information about Van Bommel Foundation. We begin with a description of the foundation's objectives, addressing both our vision and our mission. We also look ahead to the coming years. This will clarify how the foundation's objective, in short, supporting charitable causes and organising activities within the scope of its objectives, will be implemented in the years ahead.

In this policy plan you can read how the foundation fulfils its objectives. To this end, we discuss the foundation's activities, as well as its fundraising methods and the management of its assets and income. We also explain which charitable causes receive the income and how this takes place.

Finally, we note that the world is constantly changing, as are the regulations governing public benefit organisations (hereinafter: ANBIs) such as Van Bommel Foundation. This policy plan therefore includes a provisional multi-year budget, which will be kept up to date on the basis of relevant developments, not least developments concerning the income of Van Bommel Foundation.

On behalf of Van Bommel Foundation

Reynier van Bommel
Chairman

Pepijn van Bommel
Secretary

Floris van Bommel
Treasurer

1. Introduction

1.1 Objective

Van Bommel Foundation was established on 19-01-2026 and, from the outset, aims to support a broad range of themes and subjects. Its objectives explicitly exclude making distributions to the founder, to persons who are members of the foundation's bodies, or to their relatives.

1.1.1 Mission

Supporting the well-being of people, animals and nature in the broadest sense of the word.

The objective of Van Bommel Foundation is laid down in its articles of association and reads as follows:

promoting the public benefit in the Netherlands and abroad, in particular but not exclusively in the fields of care and health, welfare and poverty reduction, education and science, culture and cultural preservation, the environment and animal welfare, human rights and development cooperation, sport and social participation, and other activities of a public-benefit nature, as well as everything connected with, belonging to and/or conducive to the foregoing in the broadest sense.

Van Bommel Foundation makes resources available for the objectives it has set, including liquid funds, but may also seek to support its objectives in other ways. For example, by providing loans or organising activities itself. The purpose of the board's efforts is not to make a profit, but to generate funds for the objectives it has set and to which it wishes to contribute with passion.

The foundation's objectives also include accepting, rejecting or declining acquisitions by inheritance or donation, including where a burden or obligation is attached.

1.1.2 Vision

The board critically assesses the charitable causes to which donations are made. It is the board's responsibility, in part through a sound selection policy, to ensure that charitable causes and the initiatives referred to above are supported only if the funds received by these organisations actually benefit the charitable causes effectively. The board must take this into account when implementing its policy. The board may also undertake activities within the scope of its objectives.

1.2 History

Van Bommel Foundation was, as already noted, established in 2026.

1.2.1 Internal organisation

The board of Van Bommel Foundation consists of at least three or more natural persons. Since its establishment, the board of Van Bommel Foundation has consisted of three persons:

Name	Function
Reynier van Bommel	Chairman
Pepijn van Bommel	Secretary
Floris van Bommel	Treasurer

The board is responsible for the policy pursued and continuously examines which causes can best receive the funds of Van Bommel Foundation. To this end, the board holds a board meeting at least once a year and otherwise as often as necessary. All board members have one vote at these meetings and decisions always require at least an absolute majority of the votes.

All board members must be of impeccable conduct. Also in the context of legislation concerning ANBIs, we note that none of the board members has committed an offence of such a nature that doubts exist regarding that person's integrity, respect for the person or property of others, or the Dutch legal order.

Only the board of Van Bommel Foundation may dispose of the foundation's assets. The board consists of 3 independent members. Each board member is entitled to cast one vote. As described above, all decisions are taken by at least an absolute majority of votes. Decisions are taken at meetings or outside meetings in accordance with the articles of association. Under the articles of association, no natural person or legal entity may in any way dispose of the assets of Van Bommel Foundation as if they were their own assets. For the implementation of the donations policy, the treasurer is authorised to execute donations pledged by the foundation.

1.2.2 External organisations

The board works with a number of external market parties. For the management of the assets, a bank account has been opened with a Dutch banking institution, Van Lanschot Kempen. BDO Accountants & Belastingadviseurs B.V. is responsible for maintaining the accounts and preparing and issuing the audit opinion on the annual accounts.

The board enjoys a good working relationship with both parties and sees no need to place the financial services provided to Van Bommel Foundation elsewhere.

2. Activities of Van Bommel Foundation

The activities of Van Bommel Foundation are mainly carried out by the foundation's board. Van Bommel Foundation has no employees. The board's activities mainly include managing assets and income, revenue and expenditure, fundraising, and assessing, approving and rejecting applications for donations from third parties.

2.1 Fundraising

Van Bommel Foundation has assets at its disposal. In principle, Van Bommel Foundation has sufficient resources to ensure the foundation's continuity for a period of three years.

Where possible, the board will approach parties and contacts who support the objectives of Van Bommel Foundation in order to encourage them to donate resources to Van Bommel Foundation.

2.2 Management of assets

Income mainly consists of donations received. The costs of maintaining a bank account and the accountant's fees are deducted from this.

The assets held by the foundation are important for ensuring the continuity and feasibility of its objectives.

2.3 Use of assets

The board ensures that, in its opinion, the foundation's operating costs are not excessive and are fully related to the activities performed.

No remuneration for board duties is awarded to the directors of Van Bommel Foundation. Expenses incurred by board members may be reimbursed by the foundation.

Each year, the board of Van Bommel Foundation will select charitable causes. In making this selection, it will take into account that many organisations require support, but donations will mainly be made to organisations that use the funds received appropriately or have demonstrated in the past that donations received were used appropriately in accordance with the foundation's objectives and the application.

The board carefully examines all applications in order to make a sound assessment. An application must sufficiently fit within one of the foundation's objectives in order to receive support.

Decisions are aimed at helping to realise or strengthen the purpose of the application. The board may request amendments to the submitted application or impose conditions. The board may also decide to reject the application. Any rejection of an application does not need to be explained further.

When awarding support, the board seeks to impose as little additional administrative burden as possible on the recipient organisation.

The board will draw up assessment guidelines for evaluating applications. Virtually all income of Van Bommel Foundation, after deduction of costs, is donated to charitable causes or will be used to undertake activities in accordance with its objectives.

3. Multi-year budget

The board has considered it appropriate to provide insight into the foundation's income and expenditure by means of a multi-year budget. We refer to Appendix 1 for this.

The board of Van Bommel Foundation intends, in 2026, 2027 and 2028, among other things, to make donations to charitable causes that meet the objectives of Van Bommel Foundation. Where applicable, the policy plan will be amended accordingly. Activities in accordance with the objectives will also be undertaken.

Each year, the board of Van Bommel Foundation will decide at a meeting which charitable causes will actually receive donations.

4. Summary

Van Bommel Foundation has been involved in supporting charitable causes since 2026. The foundation seeks to obtain its assets from donations. Virtually all income of Van Bommel Foundation, after deduction of costs and other obligations, is donated to charitable causes or will be used to undertake activities in accordance with its objectives. A high-quality selection policy ensures that organisations which substantially meet the objectives of Van Bommel Foundation may receive donations or loans from it.

The board expresses the hope that, in the coming years, the foundation's objectives can be met to the greatest extent possible, while the continuity of Van Bommel Foundation and compliance with amended laws and regulations will remain key priorities.
